Schoolboard & Superintendent

Without the dedication and pride of the Cross Roads Schoolboard, our school would not be the place of learning that we all know and love. The tough decisions and difficult jobs fall on the shoulders of the Schoolboard. We depend on the wisdom and experience of the Schoolboard Members.

Scott Huddleston and Tracy Miller work together to solve problems and overcome difficulties that seem to arise daily in a busy district such as Cross Roads.

Some might think of Cross Roads as a small and insignificant town, but, to the children who walked through these doors and were introduced to the world, it is so much more. It captures the small town feeling, with good people and memories that will last forever.

*"And in the end it is not the years in your life that count.
It's the life in your years."
- Abraham Lincoln*

"Fellow-citizens, we cannot escape history. We of this Congress and this administration, will be remembered in spite of ourselves. No personal significance, or insignificance, can spare one or another of us. The fiery trial through which we pass, will light us down, in honor or dishonor, to the latest generation."

- Abraham Lincoln

Seniors rule! The class with class. The cream of the crop. They have reached the end of a long road together and now they prepare to launch themselves into productive lives. At the last pep rally of the year, the seniors take a moment to express the strong emotion they feel when they consider the fact that they must soon go their separate ways.

Thirteen Year Seniors 1993-2006

Mr. and Miss CRHS

Imagine spending thirteen years with the same fifteen or sixteen people. Day in and day out, rain or shine, winter, summer, spring or fall, seeing the same faces and hearing the same voices every where. Would it result in insanity? Apparently so judging by the wild and crazy bunch of thirteen-year seniors pictured here. These students have laughed and cried together. They have won and lost together. They have learned and grown to young adulthood together and now they need to do one more thing as a group. They

Mr. and Miss CRHS, Freddy LeBaron and Tessie Thomas are two of the best examples of Senior roll models of the highest stature. Both Freddy need to learn how to say goodbye to one another.

and Tessie are star athletes and both are destined for higher education and success in the world beyond the halls and playing fields that they have learned to know and love so well.

Proud to be Bobcats

Cody, Courtney, Dalton, Delena, Greg, Maggie, and Nathan were all part of Mrs. Carter's class back in '93.

Mrs. Silvey had the rest of the thirteen year seniors- Alyssa, Brandi, Bryan, Katie, Kortnee, Natalie, Tessie, and Tiffany in her class.

Seniors

It's time to say it...

...good-bye

Senior year goes by so fast. One day you're sitting in class wishing you were somewhere else and the next you're walking across the stage wishing you didn't have to part with all your friends so soon. For most seniors, this is a time for reflecting on past experiences. There is a sense of nostalgia as they begin to remember all the good times had together. How fun music was in elementary, the first real dance in junior high, the senior pep-rally, and the last prom where they danced the night away. It's finally time to say good-bye.

Seniors 2006

What wonderful memories they made! The seniors have forged friendships that will last throughout their lifetimes. Dancing the night away at Prom, cheering the team to victory, or just hanging out with each other, these special times are the ones they will reflect upon in years to come.

Superlatives

Mrs. Scott and Maggie Lewis remember all the years they have spent together, and share a nostalgic moment.

Guest speaker Greg Gideon stresses to the audience how much the future holds, as well as how much things will change.

Delena Jock tells Mr. Barnett exactly how she feels: "...I hate to graduate because I won't be with Mr. B!"

Bottom right: Bryan Stovall and Mrs. Wallace recount humorous anecdotes that they will remember experiencing together.

Mrs. Brown and Frank Simpkins reflect on their last four years together and express their enjoyment of having known each other.

Coach Durham tells all present that he has never seen, "...greater dedication and toughness..." than he witnessed in Tessie Thomas.

Honors Night Out

Mr. Parker hands Courtney Dorsey her plaque, as well as her very own Pink Pearl eraser, signed by Mr. Parker himself.

Coach Durham gives an emotional good-bye to Katie Frentress, saying, "Our school and our basketball program is a better place because of people like Katie Frentress."

Alyssa Piper shows her great appreciation by letting Mrs. Silvey know that, "... She is so uplifting and willing to go the extra mile..."

Johnathan Hendrix and Coach Ervin laugh after expressing how much they have learned from each other.

Mrs. Casey and Holly Siggelow share a warm embrace after Mrs. Casey shouts to the world how wonderful Holly is.

Graduation Ceremony 2006

Faculty, students, family, and friends gathered for one last time to pay homage to the graduating class of 2006. Early graduate, Natalie Huddleston, opened the proceedings by leading the Pledge of Allegiance. Mr. Taylor introduced the School Board, and then Student Council member Maggie Lewis presented an emotional reading of a poem about the challenges to be faced in the future. Bryan Stovall chose to share his Valedictorian speech with Alyssa Piper, this year's Salutatorian. Taking turns, Bryan and Alyssa thanked their respective families, some of whom had traveled from as far away as Boston to attend. Then Bryan recounted nostalgic anecdotes having to do with childhood memories shared with some of his classmates.

Mr. Taylor was then called upon to award numerous scholarships, including the Go Texan and many TVCC and Band Scholarships. Delena Jock and Johnathan Hendrix were the honorees to receive the Bobcat Award.

As the program came to a close, Mr. Taylor presented the graduates to Mr. Tompkins and the entire class pitched their mortarboards into the air, sending tassels flying in all directions. This was followed by a mad scramble on all fours as the new grads crawled around trying to retrieve the correct caps.

Suddenly it was over. At that moment, the next generation stepped into the void, and each junior in the audience realized his or her new position and status. The seniors joined in a long line of those who preceded them and also those who follow in their footsteps.

Deleana Jock shakes the hand of High School Principal Charles Taylor as she accepts the Bobcat Award.

Valedictorian Bryan Stovall and Salutatorian Alyssa Piper present their acceptance speech in "Tag-Team" format. Bryan chose to share his award since his and Alyssa's GPAs were so close.

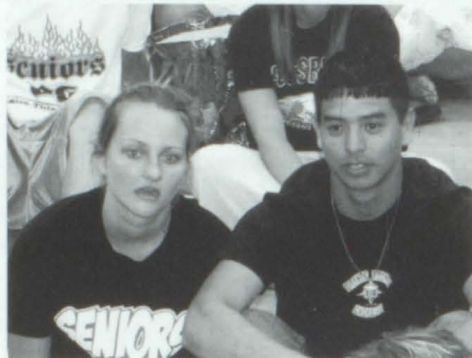

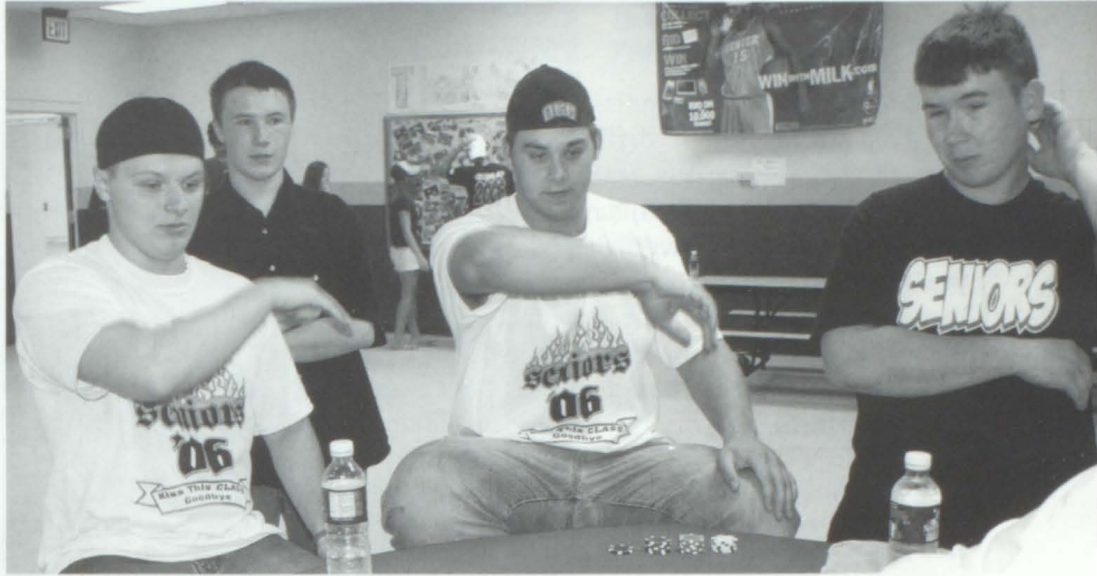

Maggie Lewis recites an inspirational poem about what the future holds, including the challenges that are still to come.

Juniors

By the time Junior year rolls around, students often find it difficult to concentrate. They rarely realize the weight on their shoulders during the year, but as the end of their high school years approach, it becomes apparent that something must be done. Rapidly, the students become more interested in their grades, as well as where their lives are leading them.

Science fiction meets the real world as these two Juniors fight it out in a battle royale for supreme control of the auditorium.

Being class president can be challenging, but Jordan Templin finds time in her busy schedule to be the first to sign up for any fund raising to be done.

Maintenance Cafeteria Library

We all remember Tommy Harris or Manuel Frias cleaning the hallways or sweeping the floors so that our school could look as proper and tidy as possible.

The library always brings back memories of searching through hundreds of books, looking for that one special story to get lost in for hours. Mrs. Barnett was always there to welcome us with a smile and to remind us when our books were due.

Good food made by great people always brought a smile to our faces. Whether it be an old favorite like pizza or burgers, or a new recipe made up by Mrs. Belinda, we never went hungry thanks to good cooking done by the excellent cafeteria ladies.

We were all thankful to all who helped us by providing the simple necessities of a good learning environment that is safe, sanitary, and nutritious.

Featuring Mrs. Belinda

Mrs. Belinda Mitchell became the Cross Roads Cafeteria Director in 1998. She received her B.A. in Nutrition from Shreveport Baptist College. Her favorite memory of working at Cross Roads is the first day of school when all of the new little kids would come through her line, and the excitement in their eyes. She retired this year after 27 years in the food service industry. We appreciate all she has done for us. She will be missed!

"No matter what you do, do it as best as you possibly can. Whether it's digging a ditch or feeding kids, give it your all, and do it well."

English & History

English and History are the backbone of all academic classes. History is where we learn about our ancestors and important historical events.

English class teaches us where the English language came from and helps us learn how to use it properly.

UP, UP, AND AWAY

Above: Lindsey Cross, with help from Dawn McCann, proves that a little ingenuity goes a long way when it comes to aeronautical design. The kites were part of one of the many projects the students undertook during their year in geometry.

NEW AND IMPROVED

Above: Hingo Lau and Kim Hayes show off their new and improved version of what Mr. Parker refers to as the physics toolbox. The revised version of the already complicated tool box includes many Christmas themed items such as candy canes, and christmas trees.

MATH & SCIENCE

Mr. Parker finds time during the busy physics schedule to present some of his famous stand-up comedy to Joseph Kirkpatrick and Nathan Bracey.

Cody Knight and David Walls prepare their kites for the very first attempt at flight.

Jeff Mayhall tries desperately to prove that his shoe is indeed a foot long.

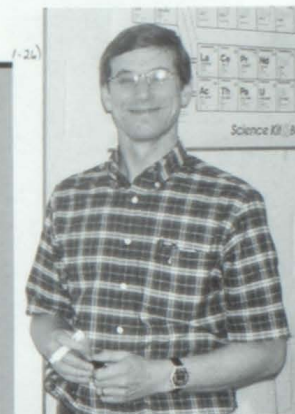

It can and it will! Fly that is, as Marissa Penney displays during geometry.

Mrs. Locke convinces students that they can accomplish amazing things. Year after year, she manages to mesmerize the students with the things that can be accomplished using math skills.

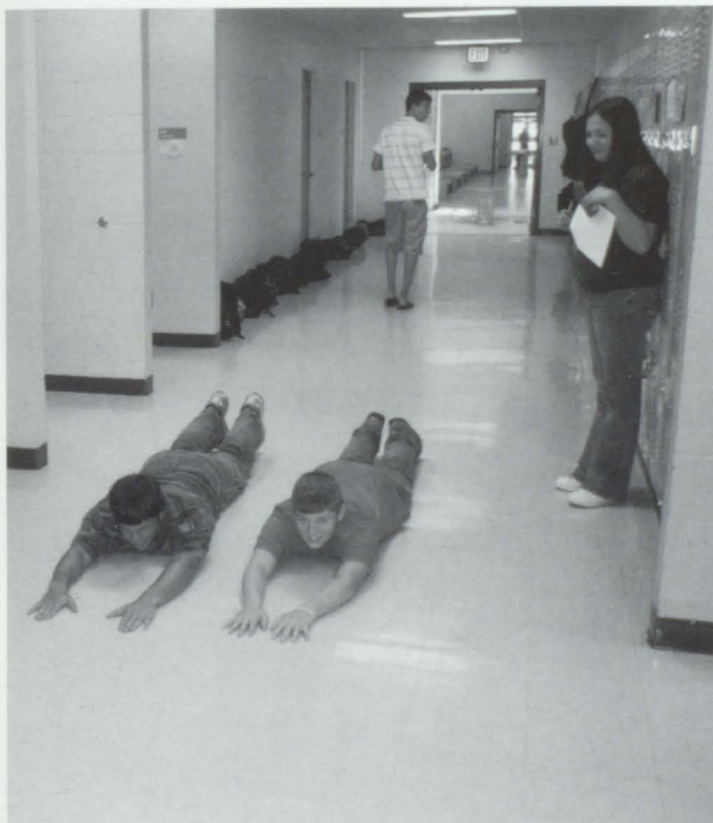

Mrs. Locke

Part Physics and Chemistry Teacher, part super-hero, Mr. Parker, works with the students in order to make sure they are prepared for everything science might throw at them.

Mr. Parker

Cody Quinn and Trey Piper demonstrate the art of dry land swimming and body measurements for Jeannie Satterfield during their Geometry class.

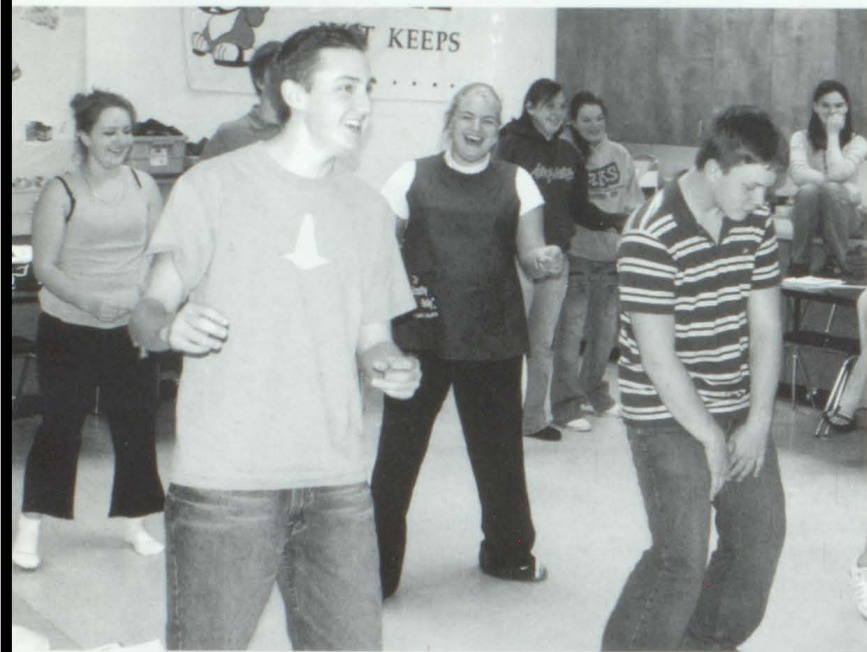

Jessica Neill assists Bradley in measuring the distance around the room one tiny foot at a time.

Schee Williams explains to her class how crucial physical development is for young children.

T.J. Atwell and Blake Roberts breaking it down in Home Ec.

If only Nathan Lozano would have listened to Justin Graham, Nathan would already be done with the pile of work before him.

Home Economics

Home Economics covers a broad range of topics including babies, etiquette, and baking. With Mrs. Phillips as their teacher, the students learn many of the basics that will soon be required of them in adult life. The Personal Family Development classes get the chance to enjoy the company of an unhappy doll for a weekend. They also learn what it takes for a child to grow up to be strong and healthy. The Nutrition and Food Science class takes a trip to Dallas in order to show off their ability to use their manners at a classy restaurant, and they get to experience some new and unique foods at the Dallas Market. The same class also gets to try their hand at cooking. Together with Mrs. Phillips, the students learn what it takes to prepare an entire meal from scratch, or at least from a bag.

Cassandra Johnson

"This class turned out to be a lot of fun, and I learned a lot with Mrs. Phillips."

Robert Wilson

"The year turned out to be crazy, I couldn't believe how hard taking care of the baby was."

Teresa Turbyfill finds herself laughing all the way through a very important speech to her class.

Robert Wilson displays his rare talent of stirring and melting butter at the same time.

Deleana Jock demonstrates the correct way to use a skill saw, with her fingers away from the blade and head to the side.

“Sweep Faster Dustin”. Freshman are historically “volunteered” for clean up duty in the Ag barn. Here, Dustin Cantrell falls victim to this unfortunate tradition.

Here Briar Henry demonstrates the wrong way to use a grinder, with his hands in the blade. Next time, perhaps he should pay attention when getting instructions on running equipment.

Agriculture

1st place Jr. Farm Skills team Josh Giles, Cody Corley, and Colton Carriere try to fix their splicing project before Mr. B finds out that they broke it.

T.J. Aulds acts like he is concentrating deeply on Mr. B's informative lecture. In truth, T.J. has just mastered the art of sleeping with his eyes open.

Cody Knight and Ross Glover are studying hard for an upcoming test. Ag is not all about building things, there is also some bookwork that goes along with all that fun.

The old "Vocational Agriculture" sign greeted all the Ag students everyday who came to learn about the exciting field of Agriculture.

Future Farmers

As the famous yellow T-shirt says, "without agriculture, you would be naked and hungry." FFA members learn about taking care of animals and raising them to become prize-winning trophy animals. The Henderson County Livestock Show is always the pinnacle for the Cross Roads FFA members. They spend hours and hours grooming and vigorously training their animals to be able to measure up to the judge's high standards.

FFA members also compete in the Sandyland Leadership Contest at TVCC. This year, Cross Roads took home a number of wins, including 1st place in Jr. Farm Skills, 2nd place in Creed Speaking, and 3rd place in Senior Farm Skills. The Cross Roads Future Farmers of America make us proud by competing and winning at these competitions. These future farmers insure that generations to come will not be without food or clothes.

Mr. Barnett, affectionately called Mr. B, explains why FFA is important to society. Mr. B has been the beloved Ag teacher and FFA sponsor at Cross Roads for many years.

Ross Miller, TJ Aulds, Frank Simpkins, and Justin Graham argue about a pig's hind muscle at the Live Stock Show. After a short dialogue, and a little name calling, they agree to disagree.

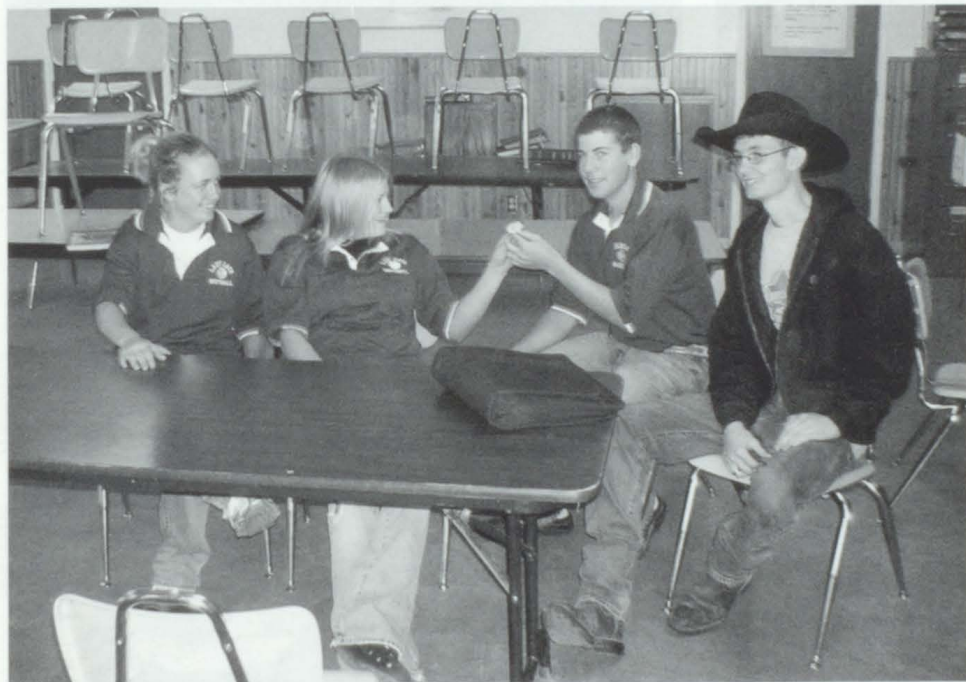

of America

Jessica Neil stands proudly next to her prize-winning goat, Tom, at the Henderson County Livestock show. Tom won 5th place in the Heavy weight Market Goat Class.

After a quick and loud chase through the stalls, and a little pig wrestling, Cody Bass pets his show pig "Wilber" at the Henderson Country Livestock Show.

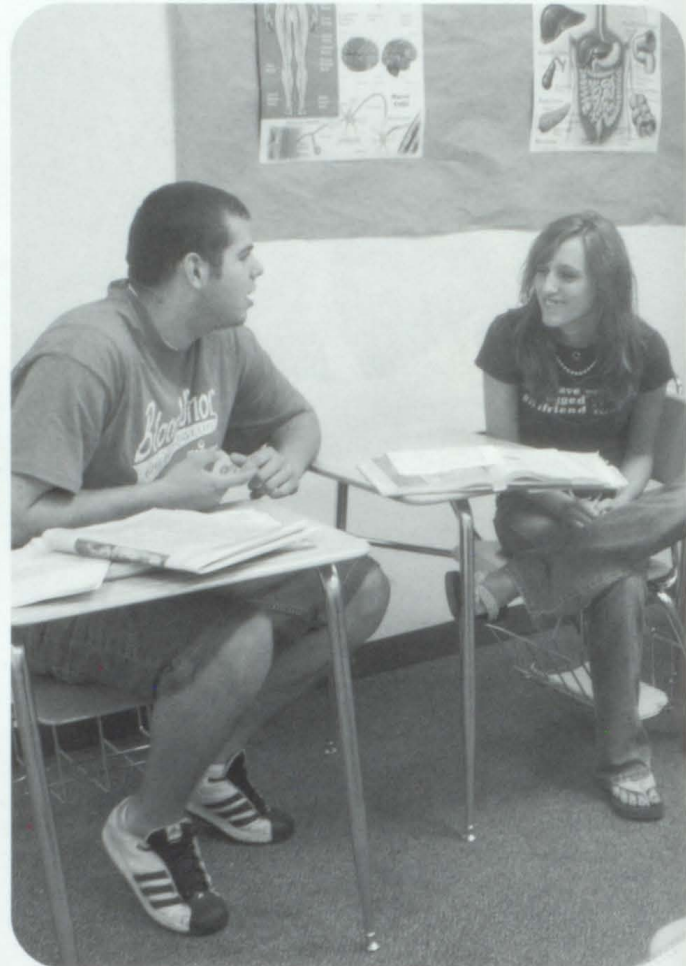

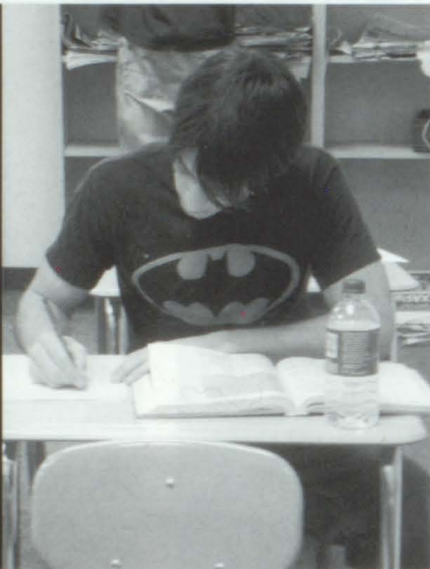

Brook Miller expresses her deep compassion for the shy Lyle Robertson by giving him a freshly picked flower. TJ Aulds and Jennifer Allen are tickled to death by Lyle's apparent embarrassment.

Health &

From Teen Leadership to CPR, these classes teach students how to lead and how to live. Most come away with a better sense of how to help their peers.

Art

-Pablo Picasso

"I don't like to say I have given my life to art. I prefer to say that art has given me my life."

-Henry Moore

Art is the strongest, most enduring form of expression. It is seen throughout history as one of the building blocks of civilization and is a basic human need. It has been embraced by every person from that of the early nomadic, cave-dwelling peoples to sophisticated impressionists such as Van Gough to the modern artists of today. Art is a form of expression that cannot be paralleled. Colors can say things that no words can describe, and one line can make all the difference in the world.

The mural was a total of 675 square feet and was completed by the Art II class (with the help of Holly Siggelov, Courtney Dorsey, Misti Pierce, and Schee Williams) in one semester, by painting only 45 minutes a day.

REFLECTIONS

Yearbook &

Yearbook is not just about placing pictures and writing captions. It's about finding the right layout and placing the right pictures. It's about not stressing out when a major deadline must be met, and it's about learning how to work well with others. Yearbook is also a place where one can take his or her creative ideas and put them into the yearbook, where one can put together the story of that year. The Yearbook is more than just a book, it is a reflection of our high school experience.

Bo Green ponders about window blinds.

Heather Akins uses her creative talents on the back of Mrs. Wallace's shelves.

Jessica Neill likes to test the durability of chairs by seeing how far back they can go.

Kim Hayes and Alyssa Piper flip through the yearbooks with extreme concentration.

Journalism

Working on The Scratchin' Post prepares us for work on the yearbook. We learn how to combine our creativity with our writing. It is also what keeps the school informed of any event that has or will happen.

Jessica Neil has a look of confusion on her face as she turns to Mrs. Wallace for answers; but is disappointed to find Mrs. W communing with her beloved babies.

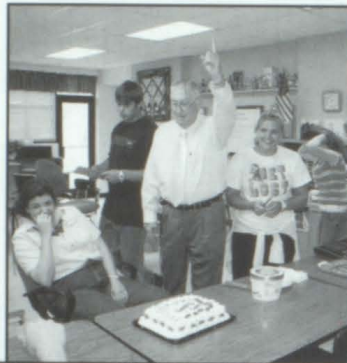

Bryan Stovall and Tina Satterfield look frustrated because of deadlines coming up, while Melanie Wheeler expresses her true desire of wanting to be a graduating cow in cap and gown.

PEER

Throughout the year the PALS find themselves on a very personal level with the other students. They are faced with new challenges, which they learn to surmount. The peer part of PAL plays a large part in their daily lives as they come face to face with new and sometimes even strange experiences, such as nearly setting the school on fire by accident. Ooops.

Left: Cody Harris and Nathan Bracey help prepare the cornbread that the PALS baked to help feed the hurricane Katrina victims who arrived in Cross Roads as refugees.

Always Helping

Assistance

Assistance is an important part of the PAL learning experience. Helping others is sometimes hard, and requires sacrifice, but that's all part of being a PAL.

The PALS' people skills are all tested at the many workshops that they attend. Sometimes fun and sometimes extremely personal, no PAL leaves these workshops unchanged.

Right: Maegan Talley and Courtney Dorsey prove that, occasionally, the PALS themselves must go head to head to find a solution.

Whether or not they are prepared for it, the second the students become PALS, they become leaders as well. They are expected to be good role models for the elementary students, and even for their fellow classmates. Without a commitment to leadership, the PALS would not succeed in their positions.

Student Council

Mrs. Scott graciously takes the responsibility of becoming the sponsor to the Student Council. Everyone appreciated her dedication!

"The kids and myself had a great time this year in Student Council. I'm proud of all of you!"
-Mrs. Scott

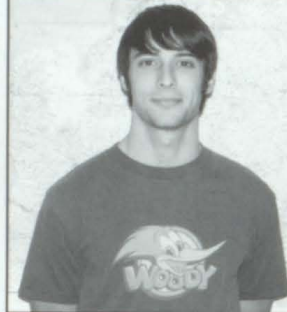

"Being president of Student Council has been such an awesome experience for me. I'm really proud of all the council's hard work and dedication. My philosophy on leadership is to learn how to follow, then you'll know how to lead."
- Blake Carrier

The Student Council holds their annual Veteran's Day Ceremony each November 11. Representatives from the Army, Navy, and Air Force spoke on what Veteran's Day meant to them. Here, the lovely ladies of Student Council are serving refreshments to the veterans.

Marissa Penny, Tara Paroline, and Mackenzie Arnold do not seem affected by the brutal schedule of Model UN prep. They seem to be always smiling!

Bryan Stovall is the guru of Model UN. He has won Best Delegate and has been the Head Delegate of the Best Delegation for three years running. Bryan is unfailingly generous with advice and sets a high standard of behavior for everyone in his delegation. Bryan even told his "countrymen" how to dress for success.

Model United Nations

Gifted and Talented

Trophy Winner Holly

Holly Siggelow worked long and hard to create this prize-winning map of Brazil for the Model UN competition held at the University of Texas in Tyler. GT students work all year on their projects, and Holly's hard work resulted in a first place win in the maps division.

Lindsey Cross wins 2nd. Place

Lindsey Cross took a unique approach to her map of Italy. Because her country is famous for its ceramics, Lindsey used glazed tiles which she formed into a mosaic map. Her innovative idea won her a second place trophy in the map division.

The Bobcats gather around first year Head Varsity Football Coach Johnson as he congratulates them on their long anticipated victory.

Teamwork

The mighty Bobcats swarm the competition behind the line of scrimmage. Repeat attacks such as this are enough to strike fear in the hearts of any opposition.

Jonathan Hendrix celebrates another awesome win for our Bobcats. Lineman like Jonathan work hard in the trenches throughout the game, and can definitely show their exultation over a win.

Freddy LeBaron slips through the hands of the opposing players as his teammates try to clear a path for him. Freddy's skills as a running back provided a great many points in every game.

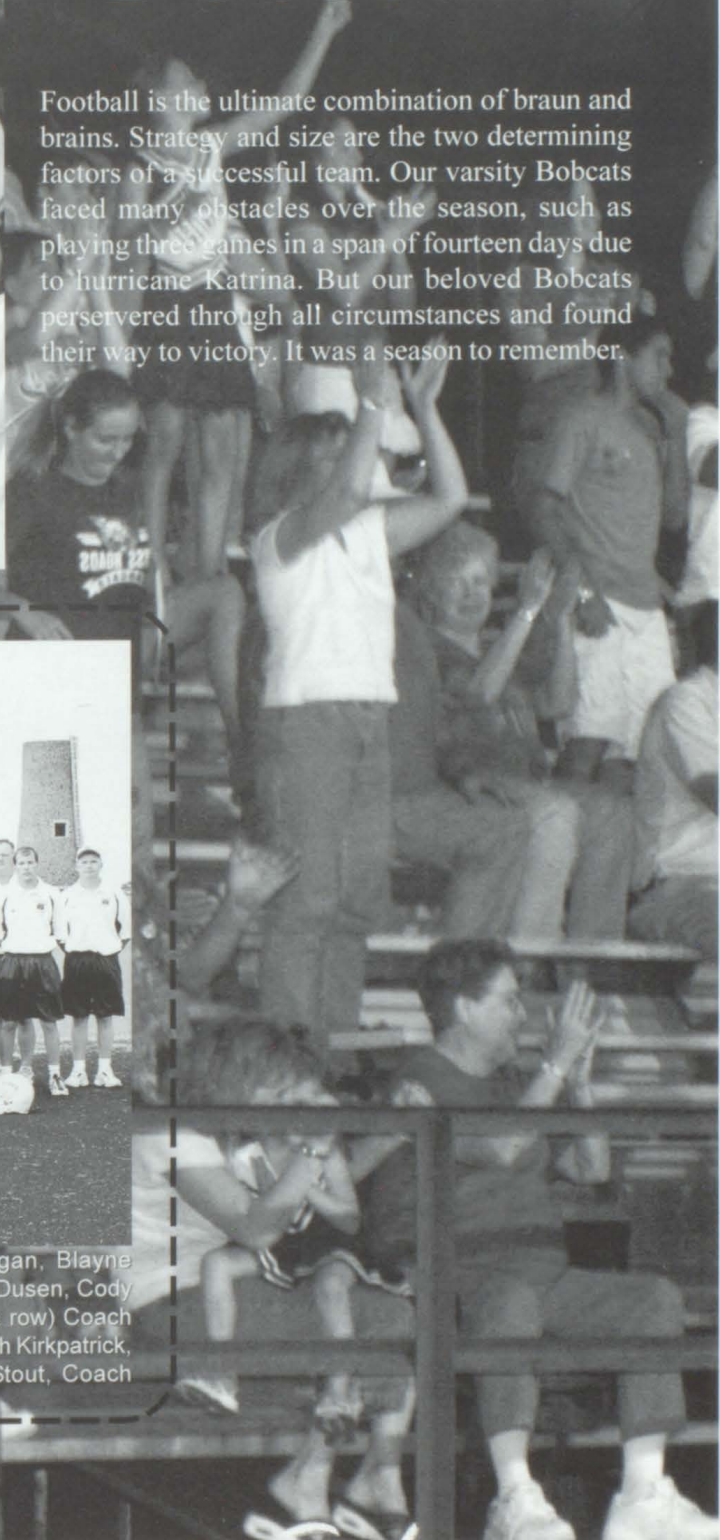

Go Bobcats!

Varsity Football

Football is the ultimate combination of brawn and brains. Strategy and size are the two determining factors of a successful team. Our varsity Bobcats faced many obstacles over the season, such as playing three games in a span of fourteen days due to hurricane Katrina. But our beloved Bobcats persevered through all circumstances and found their way to victory. It was a season to remember.

Homecoming Court

The three King nominees pose together to show their good sportmanship after the competition. All friends since junior high, Dalton, David, and Freddy are just realizing this is their last Homecoming ever.

Our Homecoming King and Queen, Freddy LeBaron and Whitney Houston pause on the side of the field to allow the spectators to take their pictures. They handle their new found fame flawlessly.

Whitney Lozano , Marissa Penney, and Jordan Templin; our winning Duchesses, stand with their fathers adorning their matching tiaras. Congratulations girls!

Queen Nominees

Kassy Ivey flashes a million dollar smile as she walks out on the field with her father.

Natalie Huddleston is all grins as she takes her place among the queen nominees, her father in tow.

Tiffany Sneed walks confidently onto the field with her father, anxious for the nights festivities to begin.

Dalton Thomas, more focused on the night's game than the Court, patiently counts the seconds until the next half will start.

Duchess Runners up

Chassity Pryor, Misti Pearce, and Kenzi Arnold all pose with their fathers.

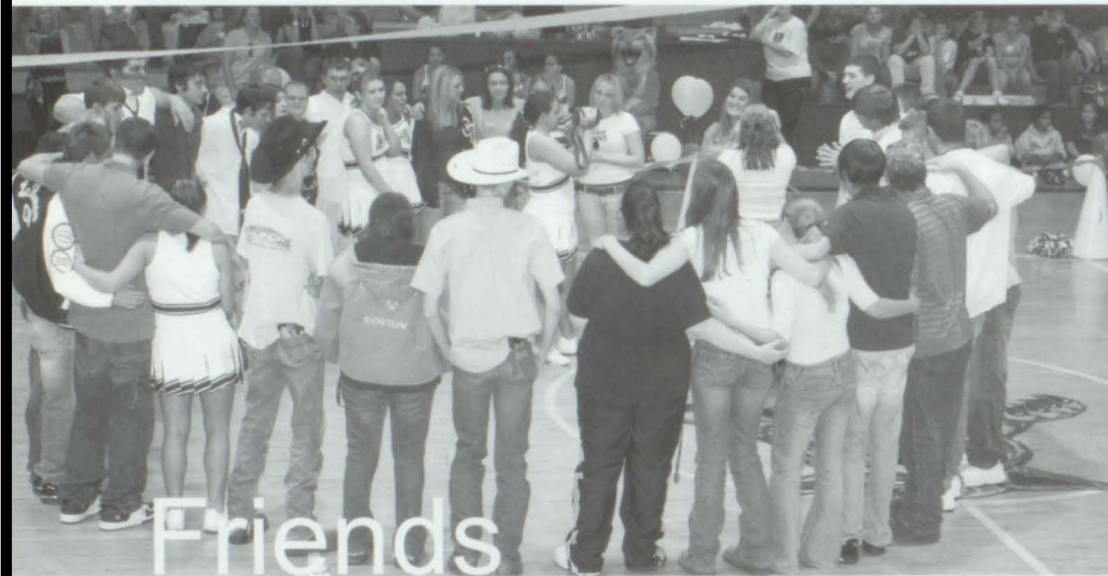

Cody Harris and Alyssa Piper are Band Beau and Sweetheart.

Whitney Houston and Jordan Templin do everything in their power to save the Bobcats' spirit during a pep rally skit.

On the sidelines, or in front of the crowd, the sound of the Varsity cheerleader spirit can be heard.

It takes dedication and hard work to perform these kinds of routines to keep the crowd pumped up at every pep rally.

High School Cheerleaders

Back: Tiffany Sneed, Jennifer Hearne, MacKenzie Arnold, Danielle Richardson.
Middle: Jordan Templin, Whitney Houston, Melanie Wheeler. Front: Maggie Lewis, Tara Paroline, Anna Shelton.

Bobcat, Tara Paroline, shakes hands with the cute kindergardeners.

Wow! Check out their jumps! When it comes to performing spectacular cheers, the Varsity Squad never fails to achieve just that.

Jordan Templin concentrates deeply, making her stunt an incredible one.

During a pep rally, the cheerleaders perform several different cheers and chants with the Kindergarden students, who, one day, may be our future Varsity squad.

John Talley shows that being quick and agile trumps being big and tall. John is known for his "escape artist" style of playing, with his lightning-fast moves and quick thinking.

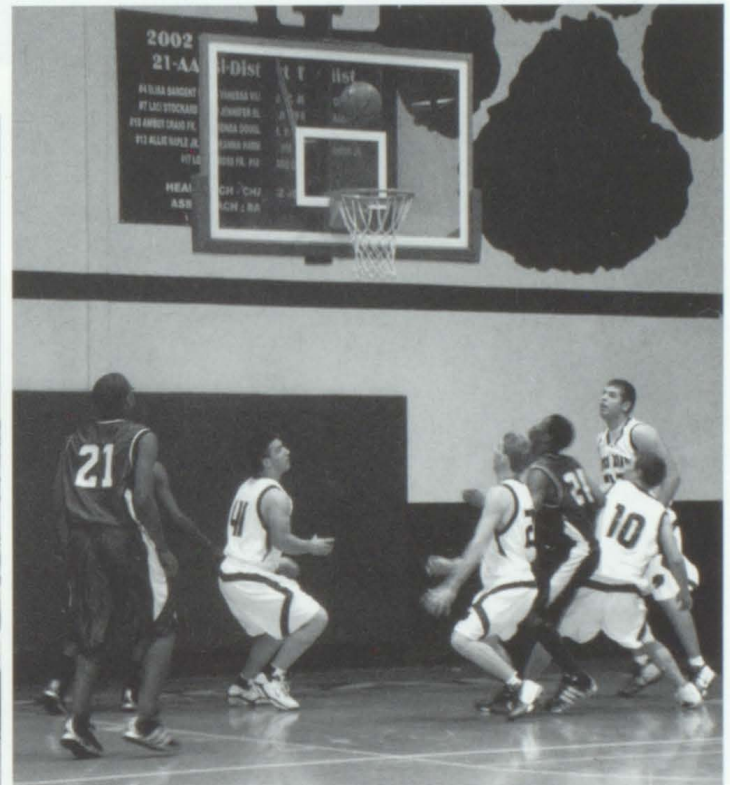

"It's mine!" Here, Greg Frazier dominates the game- starting tip-off against Frankston. Greg rarely loses the tip-off, and it is obvious why.

Varsity Boys Basketball

"Slam Dunk!!!" David McGlaughn flies through the air to deliver a powerful slam dunk. Once David gets going, you can kiss him goodbye because you can't catch him until he lets go of the rim.

Michael Jordan once said "You have to expect things of yourself before you can do them." That is exactly the mentality of this team. The Varsity Boys hold themselves to high standards when it comes to practice and preparation to achieve victory. Fans know that when they come to a Varsity game, it is going to be full of heartstopping action, loud cheering from the fans, and a fantastic display of talent, heart, and teamwork. The Varsity Boys learn from each other and about themselves. Every game was more exciting than the last, but not as thrilling as the next.

Teamwork is the key to winning any sport. Cooperation of all the Varsity Boys Basketball team members is a vital component for flawless execution.

"Yeah, your not getting that ball." Joseph Kirkpatrick knows that when that ball comes back down, it's going to be in his hands.

Katie Frentress looks beyond the person guarding her in order to make the jump shot. Don't let her size fool you, Katie, while physically petite, plays with the heart and skill of a player twice her size.

Kiery Hannigan is a major presence on the court. Teams from all across the district shudder in fear when they hear her name. Kiery lives and breathes basketball, and everyone knows it.

Girls Varsity Basketball

Chasity Pryor has two speeds. Fast and "Whoa, where did she go?". Chasity knows basketball, and it shows on the court. Here, Chasity executes an excellent lay-up impossible for the opponent to counter.

If one were to come up with a word for the Varsity Girls Basketball team's season, it would be breathtaking. The eight woman team consisted of spirited, optimistic, talented players with an amazing work ethic. The girls knew at the first day of practice that they had what it took to be the best. Also, the success of the team was contributed to by the smart and dedicated coaching from Coach Durham and Coach

Kilburn. Each amazing game was featured in the local papers, praising the girls for their accomplishments. Everyone was anticipating state level competition until the girls were defeated in post regional competition. Although they didn't go all the way, the Ladycats earned the title of Regional Champions. The 2006 season will without a doubt go down in Ladycat history.

Meagan Talley is in her own world when on the court. She concentrates only on getting the basketball in the goal, and preventing the opposing team from scoring. Nobody liked going up against this terrific player.

Foot work, speed, and aim are the keys to the classic lay-up. Bo Miller shows an excellent demonstration of a left hand lay-up.

Track FIELD

Varsity
JV

For centuries track and field sports have been renowned for being the best tests of an athlete. From the time of the Greeks to the present day, it has been about being the fastest, the strongest, the best. The tradition is continued here at Cross Roads. With so many medals, trophies, and regional qualifiers we are proud to claim some of the best athletes in the area.

Girls Track: Chasity Pryor, Jennifer Hearne, Lindsey Cross, Tessie Thomas, Mackenzi Arnold, Whitney Lazano, and Coach Marquart.

The Volleyball team listens closely as the coach lays down the strategy for the next set. Great teamwork and excellent coaching leads the Ladycats to success throughout the season.

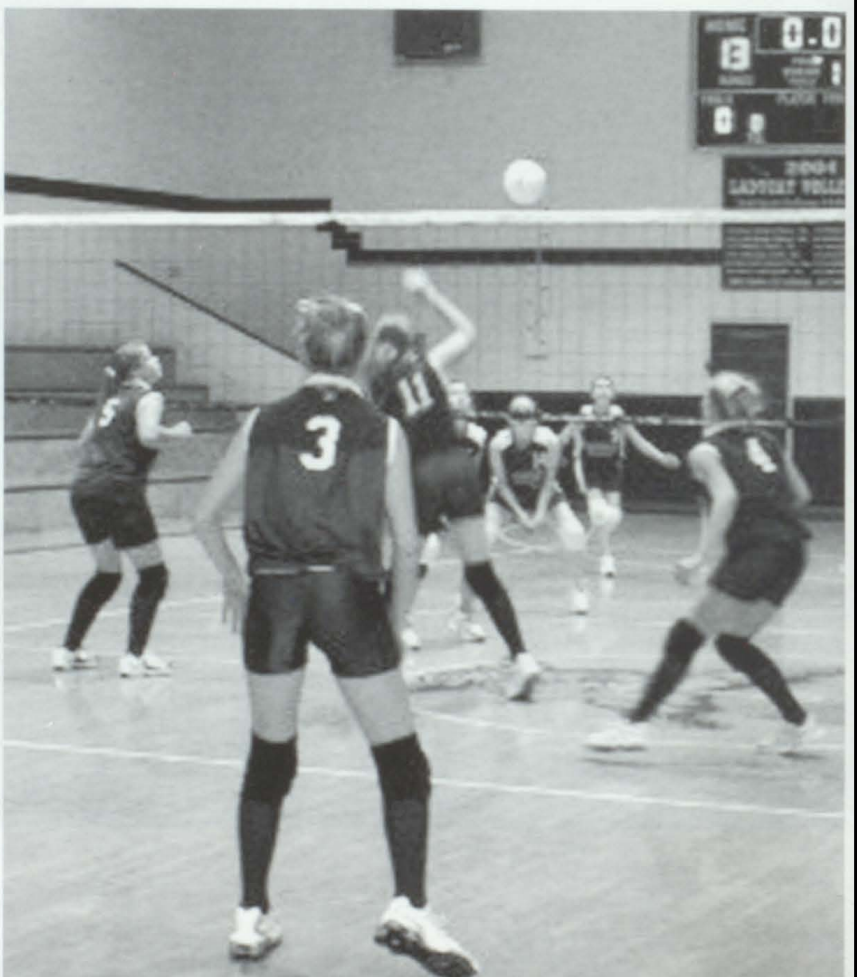

Megan Saine and Jennifer Hearne prepare to stop anything that comes in their direction.

Sportsmanship is important in everything and even a simple slap of the hands shows a team that can win with class.

Megan Sain sets herself up so that she is prepared for anything that might come over that net, especially the volleyball.

Teamwork pays off for the Ladycats, and the 13-0 scoreboard shows indisputable proof for any critics.

Junior Varsity Volleyball

The JV Volleyball team proves that they have what it takes to win, and much more. Listening well and taking everything the coaches can throw at them prepares them for the teams they play and for the lives ahead of them. Teamwork keeps them together and drives them to one win after another. Despite their struggle, they learn to count on each other and to trust the coaches.

Golf

Maggie Lewis has been golfing for years and has learned to master both the skills necessary and the patience and control needed to become a truly great player. While physical fitness and stamina are helpful, the real equalizer is control over one's mental state. "Be, be, be the ball."

Girls Golf Team: Loren Villagran, Melody Musick, Katie Frentress, Whitney Houston, Coach Stout, Maggie Lewis, Kassity Ivey, and Heather Hirsch.

Maggie Lewis, a master of "small ball", takes a practice swing. Michael Garcia draws back for a powerful drive, hoping to land on the green. Cary Kramer gets ready to grip it and rip it down the fairway. Jerrod Rachael knows that winning depends on his short game and he concentrates on each putt. Cameron Boyd marks his ball so that Justin can line up for the putt. Whitney Houston is caught in the middle of a beautiful backswing.

It's not how you play the game, oh wait! It is how you play the game. You have to make every shot count!

Boys Golf Team: Cody Knight, Micheal Garcia, Justin Brown, Jerrod Rachel, and Coach Stout.

JUNIOR HIGH GIRLS TRACK

Kinlie Johnson pushes herself to the limit to beat out the competition just steps behind her.

Reanna, Audrey, Kaylee, Kristan, and Haley take the ninja stance as they prepare for combat.

Jo Rueffer summons all of her energy to execute a perfect throw.

JUNIOR HIGH BOYS TRACK

Justin Hairgrove, in the long jump, looks as if he may take flight.

Joey, Erik, Cody, and Rance do a group "huddle", plotting out what they should do before their next event.

Shane Harris looks down to assure himself that his feet are properly positioned before shot putting.

8TH GRADE BOYS

Fourth

Fourth grade is a good place to be. The kids have an opportunity to have fun without having to worry too much about getting ready for that big step up to Junior High in two years. Fourth graders know how to take it easy while they bond with friends and develop some of the many social skills that will be used throughout life.

Alex Carriere shows her energy and spunk out on the playground during P.E. She is ready to give every sport an effort that seems larger than life.

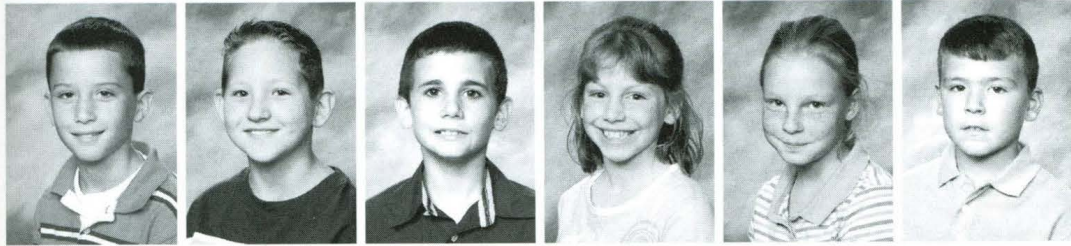

Caleb Phillips does a good job helping Mrs. Pryor in the office. He must get his talent for multi-tasking from his mom, Mrs. Phillips, the Home Ec teacher.

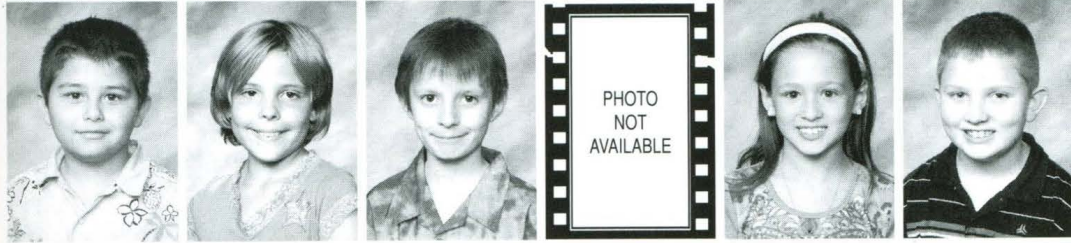

Fourth grade girls really get into the pep-rallies. They love the chants and cheers and can't wait to get up and show their spirit. These girls clap and yell to show their support for the Bobcats.

“What youth deemed crystal, age finds out was dew.”-Robert Browning

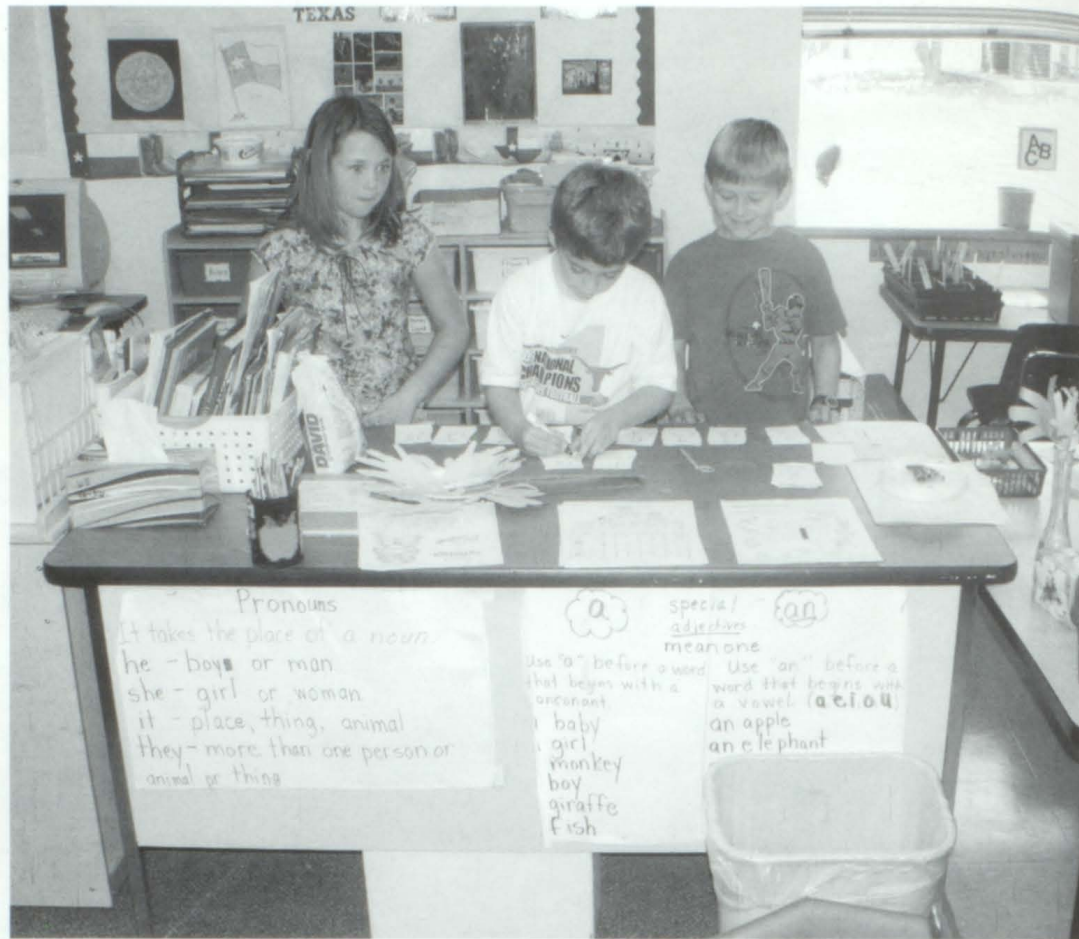

Capturing the imaginations of young people is the goal of educators. School is a door to the future and the skills that these third graders master will ensure a bright future.

Mrs. Calhoun captures the imaginations of her class through the magic of a book, though some minds wander to other places on their own.

Young girls show their school spirit, wearing mums and cheerleader uniforms. This may be an early snapshot of a future varsity squad.

As we grow old and grey we will reflect on the joys of our youth, and smile in the way that the little student smiles above: blissful and innocent.
