FLYER

High school days are a special time in a person's life: making new friends, working in groups toward special goals, being recognized for accomplishments or looking on as others are honored, enjoying victory and occasionally accepting defeat, enduring the pains of growing up, learning to understand and appreciate those different from ourselves — these are characteristics of every school year.

While many aspects of school life remain the same from year to year, each year has a personality and character of its own.

Several things made 1989-90 a special type of year. It was a season of unusual participation and enthusiasm, increased political awareness, focus on fads and fashion, extraordinary friendliness and unity, and serious preparation for the future.

High school days are far more than simply having fun and learning from books. They round out a person's character, teach good sportsmanship, and prepare one for the future.

Many students took courses designed to prepare them for a job. Others chose courses with college in mind.

Taking responsibility as an officer in a club, a cheerleader, a class officer, a student council member, or a band member gave students an opportunity to develop leadership qualities.

School activities such as sports, band, and literary contests helped students develop qualities important for success in later life. Students learned how it feels to lose and maintain their pride. They also learned to be a good sport when winning as well as when losing.

An outstanding feature of LHS was its friendliness. Friendships between students and between students and teachers grew and brought a sense of unity to the school.

*IN DEDICATION TO
MRS. PAM CLAYTON*

We, the graduating class of 1990, respectfully dedicate our yearbook to Mrs. Pam Clayton. Her patient instruction, understanding attitude, and continuous guidance are only a part of her contribution to the success of our class.

FACULTY

Superintendent

As your school days at LaPoynor become a fond memory, may this annual help you to refresh your memory and to pause to reflect on the friends you made and the happiness that came your way. Many things happened here that you shall never forget. I appreciate the annual staff, for they have kept alive for your memory some of these events. They are preserved for you in the 1989-90 yearbook.

May you always hold closely to your hearts the fond memory of the past year at LaPoynor School.

Good luck and much happiness to each of you.

Sincerely,

Mr. Douglas Steger
