History in a Pecan Shell:

Uhland stands today on what was the site of the former Live Oak Community. There was a post office from 1892 to 1902. Even with the closing of the post office, the town prospered.

As late as 1950 there were seven business in Uhland. In 1970 there were no business and 90 people living in Uhland, and today there is a café and a population of 386. Uhlanders commute to nearby San Marcos or Lockhart.
