

MISTER

Alita Chambers

Reverie

I HOPE I can remember it all now . . . a year of fun and a century of work crowded into two short months . . . a dozen accents, all American, two hundred personalities, all Americans . . . an endless play of wit and talent . . . the subtle currents of many counterplots in a stupendous drama . . . the galvanic curtain raiser: Pearl Harbor.

IT WASN'T all light and laughter at Kelly . . . there was the mud . . . correlative, perforce, with the drill . . . there were the harsh tones of Flatbush to grate on the gentle soul of Ozona . . . and vice versa . . . dress parades and tetanus shots . . . hand-in-hand . . . SMI once a week and mopping thrice . . . daily drill with mud intermittently . . . gigs and drill and mud and no hair and mud and drill and the Randolph Shuffle and drill . . . and mud.

BUT THEN there were letters from home . . . and Mr. Burchett . . . big meals and little hazing . . . and a friendly chaffing that has gone with the memory of C and D flights . . . Mr. Dowdell and the Great Dane . . . San Antonio and the cream thereof . . . wonderfully hot days and cold nights . . . the OD at bed check . . . especially on New Year's Eve . . . unexpected long distance calls . . . and our cadet officers . . . the Major's chin and tilted hat . . . fruit carried from the mess hall . . . and lots of things . . .

HOW GREATLY our outlook has changed in five weeks at Coleman . . . a broader horizon, a higher sky, a new dimension . . . so much more room in which to set free the quick mind and willing heart . . . so much more space in which to liberate the pent-up emotions of a mundane life . . . so much time to try the strong young body . . . and make known to ourselves and the world our purposeful fight for the right of Americanism.

THESE DAYS, each so different and all so full of purpose and warmth, have yet been all the same . . . Surely I can capture one of them for you . . . I can recall the thrill of first solos . . . the frustration of bounced landings . . . 20-hour checks . . . gosports . . . the top floor of the Coleman . . . or on the other hand, confinement . . . the weekend-long poker games; tycoon's antes on a soldier's pay . . . the Civil War and saucy dodos . . . the spinach and yams . . . Miss Blair and so many other nice things . . . Yes, maybe I can capture one of these days for you: I HOPE I CAN REMEMBER IT ALL NOW.

DETACHMENT

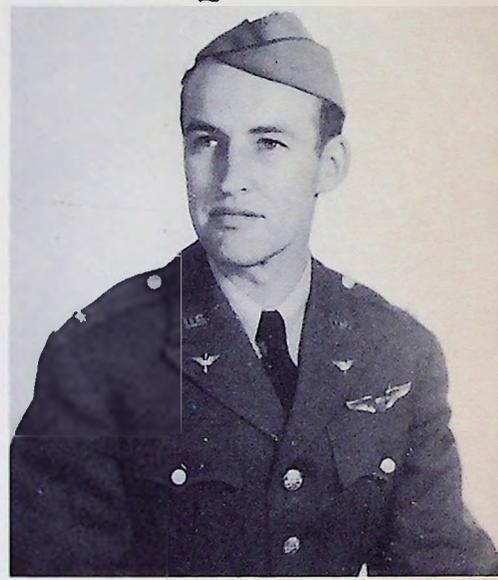

Coleman, Texas
March 12, 1942

To The Class of 42-G:

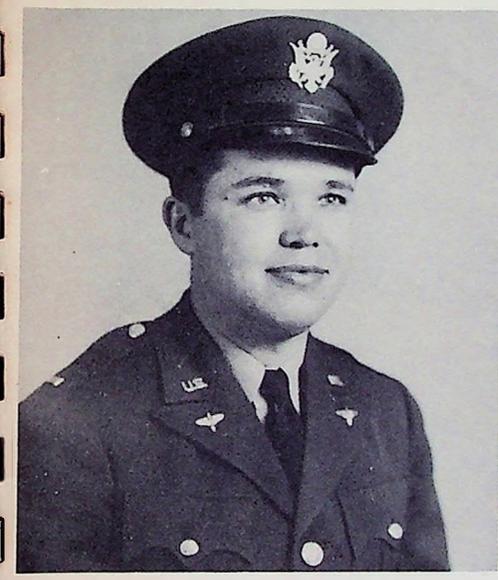

To you have successfully completed the initial phase of your flying training may I say that it has been a pleasure working with you. It has been a long, hard pull, but the days ahead hold much longer and harder ones. I ask you to always remember what you are striving for. There is nothing so satisfying as a difficult job well done.

Thomas B Whitehouse

Thomas B. Whitehouse,
1st Lt., Air Corps,
Commanding.

1st. Lieut. T. B. Whitehouse
Commanding Officer

First Lieutenant W. O. Lackie
Adjutant

IT WON'T BE AT ALL HARD to remember this part . . . so much of all that Coleman has come to mean to us, has been due to our officers . . . their willing, strong participation in our work . . . as well as our play . . . their constant thoughtfulness . . . Lieutenant Hall's smile . . . and brisk salute . . . the subtle quickness of Lieutenant Whitehouse's wit . . . in conversation of course . . . and the startling snap of Lieutenant Gerber's talks . . . whose informality we relished . . . the many comforts and freedoms for which we are indebted to Lieutenant Knox.

OF COURSE ALL THIS has little . . . or nothing . . . to do with Saturday drill . . . and no duck walk . . . and blouses worn to mess . . . and messed . . . single file on the quadrangle . . . and Sunday flying . . . but we don't talk about that . . . much . . . at any rate the balance is still heavily in their favor.

2nd. Lieutenant J. E. Knox
Commandant of Cadets

2nd. Lieutenant H. H. Gerber
Engineering Officer

2nd. Lieutenant W. H. Hall
Operations Officer

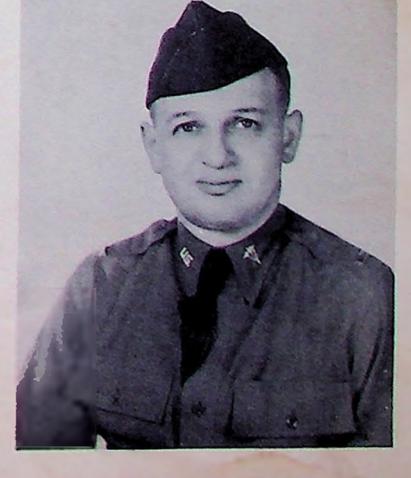

Second Lieutenant A. R. Henry
Supply Officer

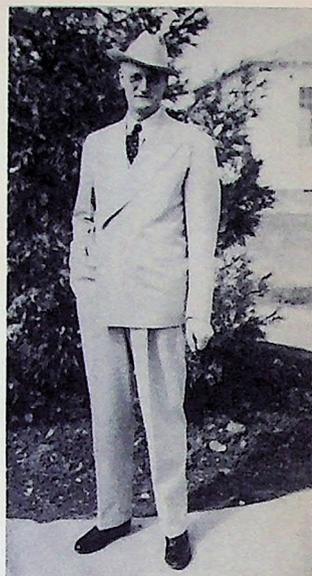

Captain D. M. Clark
Flight Surgeon

First Lieutenant S. H. Rubinfeld
Surgeon

IF I MAY MAKE SO FREE, I would like to refer . . . rather irreverently . . . to Mr. Hamill as a good egg . . . and that is not the voice of one . . . but of many as one . . . with our sincerest thanks to Mrs. Hamill for the tremendous effort she put forth in making our dance a success . . . not to mention her downright sweetness . . . and to Mr. Guin . . . the inimitable . . . mainly for his manner . . . and manners . . . finally to all those who have helped them . . . to help us.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

While here at Coleman a few classmates have transferred from pilot training to other fields of endeavor. At the time of their departure our sentiments were difficult to express. However, we know that in whatever branch of the service they enter, they will continue to be a credit both to themselves and to their organizations.

In the future, if our paths should chance to cross in the carrying out of our duties, the days we spent at Kelly and here at Coleman will provide a foundation for a greater friendship and the background for pleasant retrospect.

Flying Line

The publication of this class book would not have been possible without the gracious aid of the following: Miss N. L. Blair; Mr. E. C. Burnett; Mr. J. C. Dibrell; and Mr. Hutchinson.

WE WOULD BE DIFFERENT that is the part of our life we love most and yet this is where we work the place where we are most at ease and the place we hold most in awe the stage house the haunt of Charly, the upperclassman and Sam, the dodo where planes go up and goggles come down the home of Coca-Cola and big talk the house of disorderly cadets kept orderly by Mr. Hutchins and Mr. Justice and Mr. Jolly and Mr. Rosser the quickest route to the barber shop and navigation school and a pair of wings and the wide blue yonder.

THIS IS WHERE checks really bounce and all the world's a stage where you can see formation flying every hour on the hour where cadets cut cute patterns all of them original where everyone takes his turn at being a crank including the instructors who have a habit of saying, "Let's go up to two thousand" and really mean it where fuselages are streamlined engines in-lined 1A forms red-lined winter

HIGH FLIGHT

Oh, I have slipped the surly bonds of earth,
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward I've climbed and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds—and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of—wheeled and soared and swung High in the sunlit silence, hov'ring there.
I've chased the shouting wind along and flung
My eager craft through footless halls of air.
Up, up the long delirious, burning blue
I've topped the wind-swept heights with easy grace,
Where never lark, or even eagle, flew;
And, while with silent, lifting mind I've trod
The high untrespassed sanctity of space,
Put out my hand, and touched the face of God.

killed last December 11 in action with the R.C.A.F.*
