WE DEDICATE

We are preparing ourselves to aid our nation toward a future of peaceful security. It is therefore fitting that we dedicate this effort to that future.

COMMANDING

CAPT. ROGER M. CROW

TO The Class of 42-J:

At this time when all of you have satisfactorily completed your elementary training and the first step towards becoming Officers in the finest Army Air Force in the world, I wish to congratulate you. A job, unfamiliar to most all of us, faces you, not only in the completion of your training, but following your appointment as military pilots. We realize it may take considerable time to recover from this seeming "spin", which the world is in, but it is men like yourselves who will insure our "passengers" a successful recovery and our Nation a "happy landing."

ROGER M. CROW,
Captain, Army Air Forces,
Commanding.

SONG OF THE ARMY AIR CORPS

Off we go into the wild blue yonder,
Climbing high into the sun;
Here they come zooming to meet our thunder
At 'em boys, give 'er the gun!
Down we dive spouting our flame from under,
Off with one helluva roar;
We live in fame, go down in flame;
Nothing'll stop the Army Air Corps!

CHORUS

Here's a Toast to the host of those who love the vastness of the sky;
To a friend we will send a message of his brother men who fly.
We drink to those who gave their all of old,
Then down we roar to score the rainbow's pot of gold.
A Toast to the host of men we boast, the Army Air Corps.

Mind of men fashioned a crate of thunder
Sent it high into the blue;
Hands of men blasted the world asunder;
How they lived God only knew!
Souls of men dreaming of skies to conquer
Gave us wings ever to soar.
With scouts before and bombers galore,
Nothing'll stop the Army Air Corps!

Off we go into the wild blue yonder,
Keep the wings level and true.
If you'd live to be a gray haired wonder,
Keep the nose out of the blue!
Flying men guarding the Nation's border,
We'll be there followed by more.
In echelon we carry on,
Nothing'll stop the Army Air Corps.

3. Center of inactivity.
4. To prove No. 3 correct.
5. Prospective trouble.
6. This helps us keep upstairs.
7. Some activity now.
8. Off we go into what.
9. Two look worried, must be a check.

PEARSON'S LAST RIDE OR PRELUDE TO ELLINGTON

Here I am standing in front of the stage house waiting for an Army ride. I told Sammy it wasn't the day, but he had another view-point—the official one. The day was perfect—up until then, nothing had marred its apparent beauty. Then came the rude awakening.

"Pearson, report to plane 56 for a check ride with Lieutenant Gerber." My doom is sealed—the hour has arrived. I nonchalantly stow my old stand by, Readers Digest, in my back pocket (my instructor is always asking me if I am reading a book or flying). I finally locate that piece of gum brought from Kelly for such an occasion. I sign for a chute and start leisurely for the (deadline). "Shall I wear the chute or not? Oh well, might as well have something to bring back.

Well here he comes. We exchange salutes. He beats me down. His salute was okay, mine was worse.

Yonick volunteered his services and gives us a crank. After three failures I finally get it started. The first thing I know we are taxiing along and as he and I are friends, I drop all formalities and eliminate S'ing. Assuming the position for mag checking I apply the brakes but as usual too gently. I throttle it up to 1600 r.p.m.—heave it over to left mag—back to both—over to right mag, and what do you know? The ship is in motion, so I throw it back to both and give it the rest of the throttle. Here we go. My take-off is nothing but an extended magneto check. I look out—I never look back, I know where I have been. As we approach the center of the field, my angle of climbing is too great, I should worry about that. I have just drifted into left traffic. The tee just passed under us from left to right. Now I know where the wind is from and can promptly forget about it. I am not a fighting man anyway, just let it blow me where it will.

Now for that 200 foot turn to the right. I won't throttle back as I need all the power that I can get. I won't worry about the pattern, it is the southeast tee setting, and I never learned that one anyway. From here I stagger up to 3000 feet in jagged climbing turns. For every one that I do right, I do two wrong. At 3000 feet the Lieutenant decides to see if I can do straight and level flight. I proved that wrong too. He looks back and I hold up two fingers for the victory mark. He signals for a spin. At this time I go into my special maneuver—a combination stall, spin, outside loop including a bad recovery. From here without clearing my area I go into a series of twelve stalls. By the way I recently devised three new stalls. Not official but I never clear my area. I should be caught looking out for 79 other planes when they have only me to look after. By this time the Lieutenant pulls two forced landings on me. I finessed on these, both down wind into tree covered fields. That showed him that I'm not afraid. He is for some reason, every once in a while I catch him glancing down at his chute to see if it is okay.

By this time I am miles away from Coleman and lost. I will turn it over to the Lieutenant and finish my Readers Digest.

From here to Ellington is just a matter of a few hours as you can plainly see. The moral of this story is yet undetermined, but in the meantime,

Thumbs up and keep 'em flying, Class 42-J.

R. B. Pearson

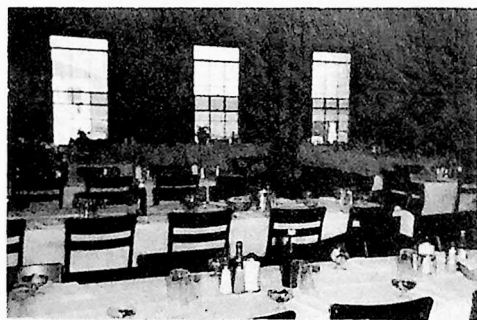

It takes a number of hands to feed us.

These are the men who take that responsibility.

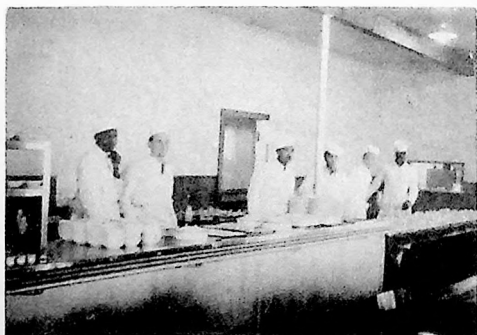

The mess all prepared for the banquet.

Joe and the boys.

Service with a smile.

THIS LIFE WE LEAD

"Sammy, can I get a solo ship?"

"Do I have to take that check ride now?"

"Remember, enter your S turns downwind, elementary 8's & pylon 8's into the wind."

The height of futility—"Link Smith, have you a cigarette?"

"Who has a nickel for a coke?"

"Do-do, how about a crank?"

"Fold your chute Army style."

"So you had to walk in from the tee."

"How many pink slips today?"

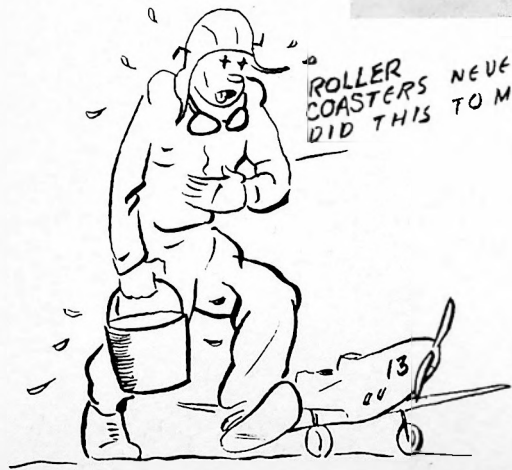

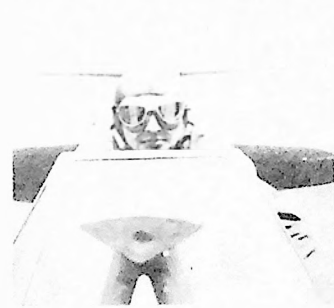

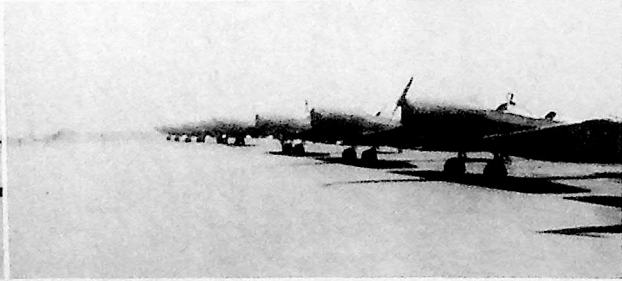

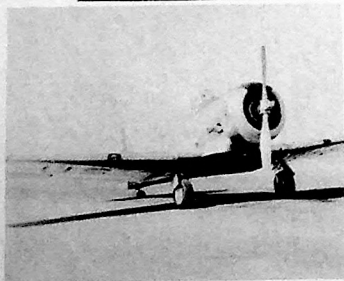

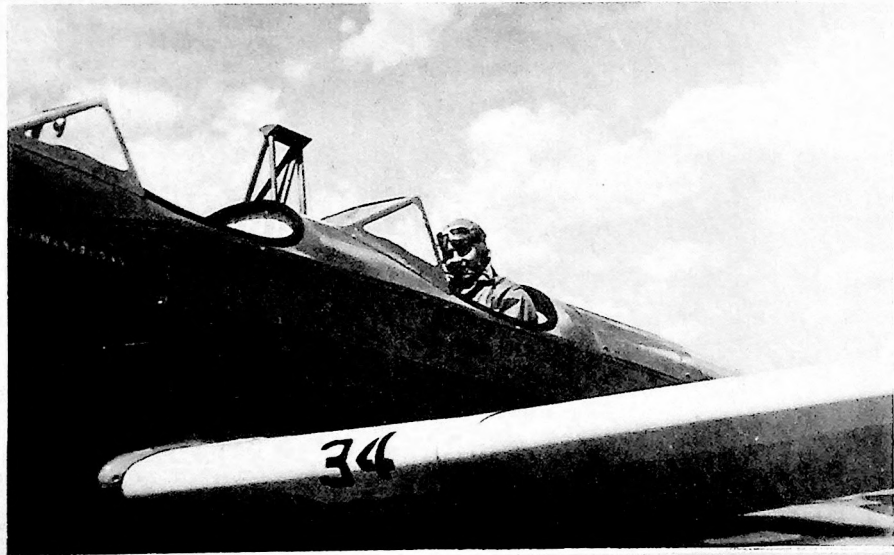

"Do-dos, clean up this room."

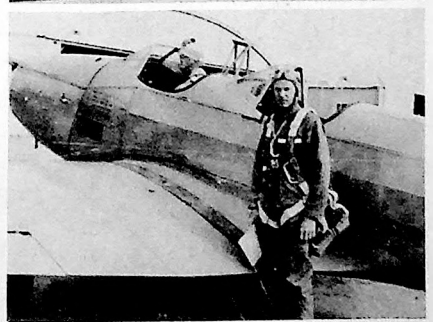

IT'S A LONG WAY
IN FROM THE TEE!
