

Since 1839 he has been a citizen of this county. A generation, as the term goes, has come and gone since he cast his lot in the county. There are none now living of whom we know that were here when Stewart Alexander Miller came to Texas fifty-five years ago.

His remains, which were taken charge of by the Masonic Fraternity, of which he had been a consistent and devoted member, were interred at the family residence on Tuesday last. The number of people present was an eloquent testimonial of the high esteem in which he was held.
