

Young

Harry R. Young died on August 22, 2007 in Katy. He was 82 years old.

He was born on October 9, 1924 in St. Louis, Missouri, but he lived in Coldspring, Texas the last 35 years of his life, next door to his good friends, Paul and Doris.

He was preceded in death by his parents; wife, Marjorie Young; son, Daniel R. Young; and his granddaughter, Holly E. Young.

He is survived by his son, Donald P. "Bo" Young; granddaughter, Favor D. Fenwick; and great-grandsons, Taylor, Robbie and Chandler.

Mr. Young served in the U.S. Navy where he served as first class aviation machinists mate (flight). He loved to fly. He later went on to build a one-of-a-kind airplane that he flew as often as he could, earning him his experimental aircraft pilot license and repairman license. He was in the process of building another plane when he died.

He worked for ARCO until he retired in 1981 when he went on to be a volunteer fireman, full time grandpa, pilot and outdoorsman.

He loved his grandchildren, fishing, hunting and anything outdoors. His dearest love was his wife, Marjorie.

His completed plan will be donated to an aircraft museum and his plane in progress will be sent to an aviation school for completion, thanks to his good friends, Richard and Alf of the Cleveland Airport, two men who shared the love of flying with him.

A memorial service will be held for friends and family on September 8, at 2:00 p.m., followed by a reception at Trinity Lutheran Church, 221 Pan American Drive, Livingston.
